Training Materials For Teachers

Learning to Read and Write the First Language

The film captures literacy learning practices ongoing in Muskaan's classrooms. It follows the children over a period of six months and documents their unique learning journeys. Children's worlds are rich with language experiences in their play, work, stories and other daily incidents. These experiences are used to build the written language skill initially through sight words and then decoding them. The approach ensures that children from marginalized backgrounds use literacy as a medium for expressing their thoughts and lives.
